Miss.

Sept. 15. 1897.

Dear Mother.

Am I not in it up to my neck?

School does not open for two-weeks. I missed connection here, have been in town since morning.

Will write for Ox-ford.
James E.

University, Miss.
Sunday Nov. 7 1897.

My Dear Mother and Father Well! Sunday has come again. To night I am going to church and then calling on the new Co-act. who by-the-way is the prettiest girl in Oxford.
She is from Jackson. Says she knows Cousin Annie but neither will nor Cora. You should see my room. It is quite cozy, being extremely full of furniture and having the green window-seat and big rug for a central attraction. I can find boys asleep on it at any hour of the day.

My room is in every quiet locality
- it is in Mrs. Ketchum's hall.
She takes a kindly interest in all the boys in her night bed. I sent her down a big piece of yeast cake and she was very grateful in consequence.

We in this hall - that is the nice boys (for there are two-rooms inhabited by "Goats" whose horns click very audibly and who are very anxious to become more intimately acquainted) have laid plans for a most large-scale thing ~~Xmas~~ - there are eight of us and there will be three boxes - all extremely large. We intend to have high feasting and much noise and have warned Mrs. Kitchman that there will be no sleep in Berchtesgaden ~~Xmas~~ eve night.

I want you to go to Rorschach to take Dinner with Cousin Cora.

Oh dear! giving every excuse the reason that you want to write me a letter on ~~Friday~~ day!

You go to Rome. You will enjoy yourself and have a good time and if you stay at home you will get the blame write me a letter that will give them to me for a week. Which last I don't want you to do by any means or means.
The Chancellor sat down upon my carrying twenty-five hours of work with a dull sickening head and would only enter me in twenty by the convenience of a few and taking logic in a delectable way. I haven't been called on but twice since school opened.
I am the most obliging girl the other day. It was in Soph. Day. The lecture was getting tiresome and I was sketching the profile of the girl I am going to see to night, into the back of my book. She turned to hear an answer to the prof. and saw what I was doing. In stead of turning her back as I've seen others do she gave me a better view than ever and didn't move a muscle for fifteen minutes. Considering the fact that she had not then met me I think it was very kind in her. She had a beautiful nose and mouth.

The Cousin Lily and Jim still with you or have they moved to Berkeley. How are many more with Will progressing. Meyer is not going to get the place cheaper than All says.

Are there any chicks on the lakes now and has he started rooming with Bruce yet. if he does - Tie him up or slip him over here.

There are nearly as many boys here this year as last but considering the fact that there have been fifty new expected "things" are not what they were.

Supper is ready so -

I am Yours loving son
James Edwards
